Notes from Fr. Keith 6/05/2010

As life slows down in June, we have time for things we didn't before. Every day is a new adventure, with unexpected opportunities popping up regularly, and there's time just to spend the day just being with no agenda. It's also time we can make a commitment to try something new.

I'm not that good at being a spontaneous person. My predecessors here, like many priests, are comfortable popping by their parishioners houses unannounced just to see what's going on. Since I can handle myself in the kitchen adequately, I don't have the need to forage like some of them did.

That doesn't mean I'm not open to coming to your house for a visit. I've talked to a few people who've said: "Oh, just drop by sometime," or "We'll talk about it later", but I'm the kind of person who needs some focus. If you'd like me to come by, please give me a call and pick a date; I'll be happy to visit. Lunch or dinner at your favorite spot is also a possibility.

If you don't want me over, that's all right. I'm here when you need me, I hope. But if you've always wanted to get together and haven't found the time, my calendar has room for you.
