Lord, teach us to pray!" Luke 11:1-14

Abraham bargains to save Sodom. He starts out with fifty innocent people. God agrees. Obviously lacking confidence he will find fifty, he bargains God down to ten. He could not even find ten, so Sodom is destroyed. The Old Testament covenants were bargains with God. God always kept his part. The patriarchs and Israelites were not so faithful. The disciples saw Jesus as a person who was faithful to the Covenant and a man of prayer. They asked Him, "Lord, teach us to pray." He teaches them the Our Father. Then He tells the stories of the persistent woman and fathers who give their children bread and eggs, not snakes and scorpions. Are we confident when we pray to God, Our Father in heaven, that His Kingdom, not ours, will come; that His will, not ours, be done; for our daily bread not tomorrow's or next year's; and to forgive our sins as we forgive others? Are we good stewards who are persistent in prayer to learn God's will? If at first you don't succeed, skydiving may not be your thing.

Try prayer instead. And keep trying!

"Why Catholic" a journey through the catechism, will be coming to St. Ann's Parish again in the fall. More information will follow!

Notes from Fr. Keith 7/25/2010

The whispers have started: the end of Summer is coming. Actually, they've been more than whispers, if you're in contact with any TV commercial, it's full volume. Labor Day is in sight, but it's still seven weeks away. We still have quite a bit of summer to go, and there's still time to savor it.

Many folks believe Christianity focuses solely on the Future, the Kingdom to Come. The Future is important, but our Faith is more than that. The journey of Faith isn't just about the destination, but the journey; how we make this trip is almost as important as the goal. The promise of the Future is a freedom for us: we don't have to worry about what's to come, we know Christ wins in the end and we win with Him. That gives us an important freedom: the freedom to live for today.

Today is always the most important day of our lives. Today is the only day we have any effect on, Today is the only day we're fully part of, Today is our chance to live fully. It doesn't matter where we are or how we feel, we live our lives in Today. And living fully in Today is living in faith, for Christ is always with us in Today, Christ is always part of every Today.
