St. Ann Parish is having a Ministry Fair! The Fair will go on after the Saturday, Oct. 1 & Sunday, Oct. 2 Masses. We have many functions that can be of service to our parishioner families and many areas where parishioners can get more involved with their church. If you are in charge of a ministry or church affiliated organization, and would like to be part of this fair, please put your name and the ministry you'll represent on the sheet in the lobby. More information to follow.

New Parish Quilt is here Regina Mackenberg has quilted together the family blocks given to her into a beautiful addition for our Parish Hall. Stop in and admire the work. Thank you Regina!

Rummage Sale It's time again to begin collecting your treasures for our fall rummage sale which will take place September 8 & 9, 2011. Please be sure all wearing apparel is clean. Unfortunately we cannot accept computers. Small appliances should be in working order. Thank you so much for your contributions which have always been very generous. Ellen Julius & Cecile Smith Chairpersons

Missouri Catholic Conference On Saturday, Oct. 1, 2011, the MCC will hold its 2011 Annual Assembly at the State Capitol in Jefferson City.
This year's Assembly will commemorate the 150th anniversary of the start of the Civil War by posing the question: how do we unite a divided nation?

There are many workshops and events of the assembly. The day is free and so is lunch. You can register at www.mocatholic.org or call MCC at (573)635-7239

Notes from Fr. Keith 8/21/2011

Where does Sacred Space begin?

Is it a physical space, set aside for prayer and contemplation? A place where we are asked to keep silence, except in those time we join our voices together? There are many places we can pray: in our homes, at our work, on the road, on the Lakes and in the forest. All places are good places to pray. We're called to pray always in Paul's letters, to make our entire lives a prayer, part of Christ's offering to the Father.

I think Sacred Space begins within us. It isn't a withdrawal from the world, where we concentrate on shutting out the world, but a silence that begins within us, a silence that isn't overcome by noise or visual distractions around us, a silence where we can empty ourselves of superficial thoughts, attractions, and worries so Christ can fill us. It isn't a place where we are cut off from one another, but are present to one another in a way beyond words. Trying to focus on Christ without others is a contradiction, for we are called to see Christ in everyone, even those we are uncomfortable with. Sacred Space is a communion with Christ that deepens our awareness of God's creation, where we can let God be God, we can let Christ hold us, and can let us see one another as God sees us.

Sacred Space is in the physical space of the Church; it is also all around us, and we are called to reverence every space as Sacred Space. Sacred Space begins within us.
